

HONORING OUR PROMISE

As another year comes to a close, life insurers are proud of their enduring ability to deliver on the promise to provide financial security to Texans.

Even as society and work change, life insurers continue to offer products that protect Texans, regardless of where or how they work, their life stage, or the economic status of their household.

According to data from the American Council of Life Insurers (ACLI), life insurers paid $138 billion to beneficiaries of life insurance policies and $107 billion to annuity holders across the country in 2022. That includes an average of $107 million in life insurance benefits, annuities, and other payments to Texas families and businesses each day.

In Texas, life insurers' investments help build affordable housing, new schools, better hospitals, and more. But most importantly, their products support and strengthen Texas families and businesses.
